

National Nature Park's Lishan Academy is now open! We welcome you to apply for outdoor education

National Nature Park's Lishan Academy is now open! In the future, teachers and students can book for outdoor education courses conducted by Lishan Academy. Lishan Academy will also host occasional project events that allow the participation of the public, so that more people can visit the natural habitat in National Nature Parks, read about culture and history, and gain more insight on the importance and value of conservation.

Starting from September 2014, Lishan Academy will provide targeted outdoor education and professional workshops for different categories of participants. Presently there are 4 sets of outdoor education curriculum materials, which are Formosan macaque, invasive species, and history-geology curriculum materials respectively. Each of the above adopts different teaching methods, guiding the participants to reflect on the correlation between 「human and environment」 in the events. For further information on the content of the curriculum and application, please visit Shoushan National Nature Park, and click 「Environmental Education」 > 「Curriculums」. News of future events will also be posted on this website. We sincerely welcome you to visit Lishan Academy, and learn how to live in peace together with the nature.
